Summary:

This communication is to highlight that the material finish and branding of SP80 and SP80H has changed. Previously, SP80 and SP80H had a polished finish. We have now changed the manufacturing process so that both versions will now have a matt aquablast finish.

In addition, the branding has changed to move in line with current product branding. There have been no functional differences introduced with this change.

Old style polished SP80

New style aquablast SP80
