Summary:

SPAlite is a servo power amplifier suitable for small co-ordinate measuring machines of less than 1m<sup>3</sup> in measuring volume. Renishaw has been making the SPAlite since 2006, but the product has now been superseded by the more advanced SPA3 amplifier. Therefore the SPAlite is now obsolete. Product bulletin PBC1766 contains more details on the SPA3 specification and part numbers. The bulletin can be accessed in the CMM support area of the Renishaw website.

Further details:

It is Renishaw's policy to support an obsolete product, through repair, RBE, or replacement for 5 years and will endeavour to support it for a further 5 years. This policy will be applied to the SPAlite.

Actions:

This product will be deleted from the next issue of the Renishaw CMM price list. Please also delete it from any other relevant price lists.
